Summary

I am an aspiring technology professional eager to embark on my next career step. I gained my interest in technology from a young age, through early exposure to computers and basic programming. My passion has been increased during my studies, where I have had the opportunity to develop my skills within Computer Science. During this time, I have become proficient in computational thinking and programming techniques.

Beyond my formal education, I have completed online Computer Science courses including various python and web development courses as-well as cyber security and game development. Recently I have had an interest in hardware and robotics broadening my knowledge and exposure, I am very keen to continue learning and developing my skills in software development and overall Computer Science.
